

Albagen™ is the first recombinant albumin-based biotechnology skin care product providing the exact benefits of Human Albumin while containing no human or animal derived materials

Albumin forms an important component of the natural skin barrier providing several measures of environmental protection – and that completely natural youthful glo!

Albumin is Mother Nature’s drug and nutrient delivery system. Albumin is the principal nutrient and drug transport protein of the body. The same important binding and transport function also serves to protect sensitive vitamins and minerals and sequester harmful agents that might otherwise damage healthy cells and prematurely age the skin

40% of the body’s extravascular albumin is located in one organ, your skin!
